

Professor Manickam Ravichandran

Prof M. Ravichandran is the Dean of Faculty of Applied Sciences, AIMST University. He did Bachelor degree in Botany from Madurai Kamaraj University, India with First Class and Gold Medal. His M.Sc.-Medical Microbiology was from Christian Medical College, Vellore, India and obtained his PhD in Biotechnology degree from Anna University, Chennai, India. He was the Committee member of 'TOP RESEARCH SCIENTISTS MALAYSIA' (TRSM) of the Academy of Sciences Malaysia (ASM). He was the former Vice-Chancellor of AIMST University, Malaysia.

Currently, his research interests are genetically engineered cholera vaccine and formulation, molecular diagnostics and phage therapy. He has 70 publications in international journals, supervised 40 postgraduate students, filed 8 patents and commercialized 3 products on diagnostics. He has been awarded 44 national and international awards for the academic and research excellence including Ideas Inventions New Products - (IENA), Nuremberg Germany; International Exhibition of Inventions: New Technologies and Products, Geneva and Anugerah Inovasi Negara.